Generally prohibited usage:

- Money transfers (Venmo, CashApp, PayPal, etc.) & ATM access
- Purchase of other gift cards
- Gambling online or in casinos
- Dating services & adult entertainment
- Subscriptions/bill pays
- Online purchases that exceed the available balance

Expiration:

Your card is valid for use until the funds have been exhausted or until your card has expired. The expiration date (month and year) is printed on the front of your card.

If you still have available funds on your card after the card has expired, or the card has been lost, you may request a new card with your remaining balance for a $5 fee.

Helpful tips:

For debit purchases, use the PIN you created when activating the card. Or, run your card as a credit.

At a gas station, always pay the cashier inside and request the exact amount you want the card authorized for.

Restaurants, salons, food delivery services, hotels, etc typically request an authorization for approximately 20% more than the anticipated purchase. If you request a specific amount to be charged to your card, the additional 20% will still be added. Your transaction will be declined if this amount exceeds the balance on your card.

Purchases outside of the United States will incur a 3% fee.
